Singapore shares rise, shaking off new US tariffs; STI up 0.6%

Across the broader market, gainers beat losers 335 to 191, as 895.9m securities worth S$1.4b change hands

SINGAPORE stocks ended higher on Thursday (Nov 26).

The benchmark Straits Times Index (STI) gained 0.6 per cent or 31.81 points to finish at 4,962.64. The increase came despite the US Trade Representative proposing Section 301 tariffs of up to 20 per cent on Singapore and 13 other trading partners.

Mapletree Industrial Trust (MIT) led the gainers on Singapore's blue-chip index, rising 1.8 per cent or S$0.03 to S$1.66. The worst performer among STI constituents was Seatrium, which fell 3.7 per cent or S$0.05 to S$1.31. The company continued its downtrend after its retrenchment announcement earlier this week.

The three local banks ended higher. DBS gained 0.6 per cent or S$0.41 to S$65.85, OCBC rose 0.9 per cent or S$0.23 to S$26.61, and UOB was up 0.7 per cent or S$0.24 at S$35.44.

Within the iEdge Singapore Next 50 Index, ValueMax was the top gainer, rising 4.8 per cent or S$0.035 to S$0.765, while PC Partner was the biggest decliner, falling 3.2 per cent or S$0.05 to S$1.51.

Across the broader market, gainers outnumbered losers 335 to 191, after 895.9 million securities worth S$1.4 billion changed hands.

Key regional indices were positive. Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index gained 1.2 per cent, Japan's Nikkei 225 rose 0.9 per cent, South Korea's Kospi was up 0.3 per cent and the FTSE Bursa Malaysia KLCI advanced 0.6 per cent.

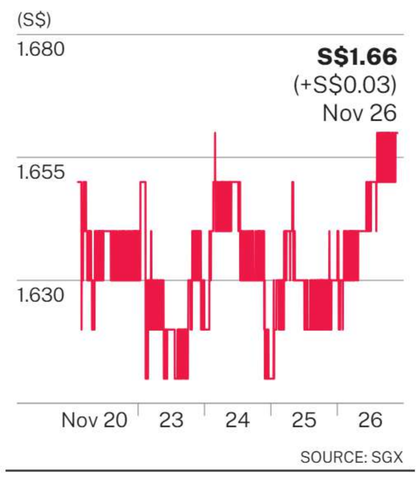

Stephen Innes, managing partner at SPI Asset Management, said that the latest Section 301 proposal was essentially an attempt to restore tariff rates to something resembling their pre-Supreme Court position, before the court struck down the earlier International Emergency Economic Powers Act-based measures in February.

"The important distinction is that the replacement regime has narrower product coverage, meaning that even countries facing familiar headline tariff rates may ultimately experience a slightly lower effective burden."

He noted that this was "hardly the same thing as announcing an entirely new trade war". "The latest proposal is marginally less aggressive than the assumptions already circulating before the announcement," he added. "And implementation has been pushed back rather than accelerated."

Greenback rally takes a pause; euro steadies

THE US dollar took a breather heading into the American Thanksgiving holiday on Thursday (Nov 26), trading just below this year's highs, as global stocks bounced back and an investor rush to safer assets abated.

The US dollar index, which tracks the greenback against a basket of six others, see-sawed to last trade slightly higher at 103.76, a notch below its highest since March 2025.

Sim Moh Siong, an FX strategist at OCBC in Singapore, said the US dollar's relationship with equities could remain choppy, caught between safe-haven demand and concerns that a deeper artificial intelligence slowdown could weigh on US growth.

"The risk-reward of chasing further US dollar gains looks less attractive, but hawkish (US Federal Reserve) risks should keep the dollar supported," he said.

The yen was largely flat against the US dollar, trading around 159.25.

The euro was steady at US$1.097 and eyeing its third day of recovery after falling to its lowest since April 2025 earlier in the week.

Still, it would be difficult for the common currency to regain the key US$1.12 level in the short and medium term, said Tomas García-Purrinos, a senior strategist at Santander Asset Management, adding that a new range was taking shape between US$1.07 and US$1.12.

"Over the next three to six months, price movements will remain within very narrow ranges, but within our neutral view on currencies, we favour the US dollar, particularly against the euro," he said.

The euro remained at US$1.097, eyeing its third day of recovery after falling to its lowest level since April 2025 earlier in the week. PHOTO: REUTERS

The euro still has to adjust to lower energy prices this month, which have improved the eurozone's terms of trade, ING analysts noted.

"The problem is that the central drivers of US dollar strength – a strong American economy, inflation above target and a hawkish Fed – remain fully intact," the analysts said in a note.

Sterling was flat at US$1.311.

The Trump administration proposed new tariffs on goods from 14 major trading partners on Wednesday, with the highest rates to hit China, which the US blames most for flooding global markets with cheap exports.

But the tariff impact on the US dollar was likely to be muted, as the proposed levies lacked the shock of the 2025 roll-out, said Vishnu Varathan, an economist at Mizuho Bank. "This is more of a defensive dollar strength than it is an aggressive loss of trade support for Asian currencies."

Hotter-than-expected US core personal consumption expenditures inflation in October, a sharp upward revision to third-quarter gross domestic product and a Fed survey showing continued economic growth and sticky inflation cemented expectations the American central bank will raise rates by 25 basis points in December and again in early 2027.

The Swiss franc weakened 0.4 per cent against the US dollar on Thursday, having firmed 0.5 per cent the previous session on safe-haven demand, and last traded at 0.834 per US dollar. REUTERS
