Is there a limit to how many times I can change my name in Singapore?

In general, there is no specific legal limit to the number of times you can change your name in Singapore using a Deed Poll. However, name changes are subject to approval by relevant authorities such as the Immigration & Checkpoints Authority (ICA).

Each name change must:

- Be supported by a properly executed Deed Poll;
- Comply with ICA's name formatting guidelines;
- Not be misleading, offensive, or for improper purposes.

What should I consider before changing my name again?

Before proceeding with another name change, consider:

- Whether the change is necessary and justified;
- Whether the new name may cause issues with your personal, legal, or financial records;
- The time and effort involved in updating official documents and records (NRIC, passport, banks, etc.).

Can minors change their names more than once?

Yes, minors can change their names more than once, but each application is subject to strict parental consent requirements. ICA generally requires:

- Both parents to sign the Deed Poll, unless a valid court order or death certificate is provided;

How can I get help with a name change?

At Loh Eben Ong LLP, we can assist with:

- Preparing Deed Polls for adults and minors;
- Ensuring compliance with ICA’s current requirements.
